

Current status: The U.S.-China Board of Trade has approved product lists for consideration under the “30-for-30” framework. Per the Terms of Reference dated September 27, 2026, future tariff reductions involving the products on the approved lists will be determined and implemented in accordance with each side’s domestic legal processes. The September 27, 2026 materials do not themselves establish a new U.S. tariff rate, effective date, Chapter 99 provision, CBP/ACE filing procedure, or other implementation instructions. No tariff reduction is in effect at this time.

How to use this reference: “Ex-Out: Yes” means only the specific portion of the HTSUS provision described in the official product description is included in the recommendation. For all other listed provisions, properly classified products within the listed HTSUS provision are covered, subject to future implementation. “Nesoi” means “not elsewhere specified or included.” Tariff Reduction Status reflects that implementation has not yet occurred.
